

Ones to watch

LAW

Celeste M. Butera

Partner,
Rivkin Radler

As part of the firm's Insurance and Coverage Litigation and Intellectual Property practice groups, Butera focuses on litigating intellectual property disputes. A specialist in trademark, copyright, domain name and cyber-piracy disputes, she represents clients in proceedings before the Patent and Trademark Office; she also counsels clients and litigates Internet law, as well as business torts and related liabilities. Butera was ranked among Long Island Business News' "50 Under 40 Class of Rising Stars" in 2001.

William P. Laino

Partner,
Moritt Hock Hamroff & Horowitz

Named partner last year, Laino is a commercial litigator whose specialties include shareholder and partnership disputes, contract claims and construction law. He also has experience in financing transactions, including aircraft sales and leases. Laino is admitted to practice in New York and admitted to practice before the United States District Court for the Southern and Eastern Districts, and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. He is also an arbitrator for the NASD, formerly the National Association of Securities Dealers.

Lourdes M. Martinez

Partner,
Garfunkel, Wild & Travis

A partner in the Compliance and White Collar Defense, Health Care and HIPAA Compliance practices, Martinez defends clients in criminal, civil and regulatory government actions. Her clients include for-profit and not-for-profit skilled nursing facilities, hospitals, home health agencies, physicians and other providers. She has written articles for the New York Health Law Update and the New York State Bar Association's Health Law Journal. Before joining Garfunkel, Wild in 1998, she was an assistant district attorney in the Kings County District Attorney's Office.

Dennis C. O'Rourke

Of Counsel,
Moritt Hock Hamroff & Horowitz

In 2006, O'Rourke joined the firm's Corporate/Securities, Mergers and Acquisitions Practice Group as of counsel, after running a corporate consulting practice for public companies and private companies going public. Before that, he was a partner at Ruskin Moscou Faltischek P.C., where he represented issuers and underwriters in initial public offerings, secondary offerings, private placements and mergers and acquisitions. After graduating from the United States Naval Academy in 1989, O'Rourke earned his law degree from the Hofstra University School of Law.